

Electrification Financing

BlocPower is a black-owned, climate tech company that strives to deliver greener, healthier, smarter buildings to all, with a focus on serving low- and moderate-income (LMI) residents.

BlocPower addresses a key barrier to decarbonization by providing off-balance sheet financing to LMI properties and communities to enable electrification projects with no up front costs. BlocPower uses a mapping tool to identify buildings within a community that are well suited for electrification. Applying local and federal incentives across building portfolios allows them to scale projects, completing over 5,000 energy efficiency and electrification projects to date.

- ▶ Provided more than $850,000 worth of funding for decarbonization upgrades to reduce carbon emissions, lower energy usage, and add air conditioning to a historic building housing LMI tenants
- ▶ The building upgrades will save over 400,000 kBtu annually while replacing essential, obsolete equipment
